

Unit 6

System Software - Operating Systems

This week's consideration focused on software applications known as operating systems. In this unit, we looked at the basic functionalities of operating systems in terms of memory management, task management, multi-threading and storage management.

General thoughts about this unit